Naviair reorganized into a company owned by the Danish State

The Danish Minister of Transport, Hans Christian Schmidt, has reorganized Naviair into a company owned by the Danish State effective as of 27 October 2010.

- With this reorganization, I am convinced that Naviair is well prepared in a strained aviation business. At the same time the Management and the employees will continue the efforts of keeping low costs for the benefit of the users, says Hans Christian Schmidt.

With this new company status, Naviair will have full independence in terms of being less restricted in acting independently in the future. By this Naviair is strengthened when facing future challenges – not least related to the international alliances and cooperation's, which Naviair is part of – and which is an important element in Naviair's future strategy.

With Swedish LFV, Naviair has established the subsidiary NUAC. In the future years NUAC takes over the operation of en-route traffic in the Danish-Swedish Functional Airspace Block. Naviair is also partner in COOPANS (CO-Operation of Air Navigation Service Providers), where the objective is to harmonize procedures and standardize the ATM systems in Denmark, Sweden, Ireland and Austria.
